To: Michigan Supreme Court
Clerks Office

I, Curtis Coleman feel that the (1) year ruling on the 6.500 motion is unjust for the reason as followed: (1) most of the prisoners that come in the system do not know law, it takes years of learning to learn law. (2) most, if not all prisoners does not have the money to pay a lawyer to do the work in that time limit.

I think that you should change the time limit to some years, plus we should have more than one opportunity to put a 6.500 motion in the courts.

The courts are the only way of relief so if you all continue to make it harder, for that relief the prisons will continue to stay full.
