Re: revision of form MC 06 to include financial sanctions relating to criminal cases; rather than add language to the current Notice form, that is used for every category of cases and where the financial sanction language would not apply, why not create a new Notice form specifically for Criminal cases? If added to the current Notice, I would be concerned that the language could get lost in all the other information on the notice, and/or civil pro per litigants may get confused/concerned, and not understand the purpose of the language. In considering our use of the Notice form, number wise, we use the Notice form, MC 06, more on general civil and divorce cases, then criminal cases. If a new Criminal Notice form was created, the financial language could be bolded / enlarged to add more focus to issues concerning just criminal cases.
